

China Road Maintenance Summit 2008

Venue: Xi'an China

Conference Day: 20th & 21st October, 2008

Along with the rapid development of China road construction industry, China road maintenance industry gains increasing attention and effort. China road industry has entered a new era in which both construction and maintenance are of equal significance.

However, challenge emerges between the current domestic maintenance technology and mechanization and the growing demand of China road maintenance.

Merisis organizes this summit, endorsed by International Road Federation(IRF), in order to involve the latest and hot topics of road maintenance industry, including industry trend, road maintenance mechanism, rural and west road maintenance, hottest concern, latest technology, materials and equipments as well as future prospect. All that participate in this event, wide-ranging from road related associations and organizations, road bureaus, construction/maintenance companies to materials or equipment suppliers, will find a platform for experience sharing and technical exchanges face to face as well as business breakthrough opportunities.

KEY ISSUES TO BE COVERED

- Comprehensive market analysis of China's road maintenance industry
- Hot issues involved in road maintenance industry
- Road maintenance technology applications & innovations
- Latest materials and equipments

Prior to China Road Maintenance Summit 2008, we have successfully held 1st and 2nd China road maintenance related summit respectively in 2005 and 2006. On the past two conferences, we have IRF as our official international co-organizer and many well-known corporations, such as Caterpillar, Dynapac, Fayat, Ingersollrand, Shell, Wirtgen, etc involved into our event. According to the feedback of our delegates, our conference provided a good platform for technical exchange and business networking. So we are still looking forward to a great success again.
